THE TIMES KODAK.

Interesting News Items Gathered Around Salem.

At sundown yesterday it was expected that Salem Furnace would blow out for repairs during the night.

W. D. Adams, of Lynchburg, was in town on business yesterday.

Rev. J. S. Hutchinson will on Sunday commence a "Village Meeting," in which he will be assisted by the various pastors in the Roanoke district.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Salem Development Company, held in their office yesterday afternoon, it was agreed to place certain lots of the company on the market at a reasonable price, taking stock at par in payment for them.

Thursday night Salem Lodge No. 44, K. of P., gave two pages the degree of esquire with much relish and life.

The stockholders of the Hockman Land Company held their annual meeting yesterday and transacted the following business: Resolutions were passed complimenting the excellent management of the retiring president, W. N. Nelson, who contemplates removing to St. Louis to live. J. P. Saul was elected president; R. E. Hatcher, vice-president; G. J. Ligon, secretary and treasurer.

Board of directors: W. D. Adams, J. B. Frier, J. W. Bushong, C. L. Hatcher, J. P. Saul, R. E. Hatcher and G. J. Ligon. The president was instructed to collect all out-standing notes and if not collected the trustees were ordered to advertise the lots for which the notes were given and sell them. Messrs. Saul, Ligon and Frier were appointed a committee to value the 105 unsold lots of the company, and to exchange them, after twenty days' advertising of the same, for stock of the company at par value.

Councilman Smith, neatly shaved and in his best "bib and tucker," drove to Hollins yesterday in great shape behind a pair of spirited bays.

There will be seventeen graduates from Roanoke College this season. Most of the graduates have left for their respective homes to prepare themselves for commencement which will occur on the 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th of June.

SCIENCE AND PROGRESS.

HERALDS are growing most remarkably scarce.

So SMALL is the thread carried by the spindle of the phonograph that the process of threading requires the aid of a mechanical device.

Dr. SCORSHY calculated the velocity of the average wave in a storm at 2,375 feet in each minute or 32.67 English statute miles in an hour.

Ice is accumulating at the north pole. Some day, it is alleged by some scientists, the earth will fall out of balance and man will be utterly annihilated by the rush of moving objects.

Tides may be regarded as taking their rise in the broad expanse of the southern ocean and the tidal waves will often acquire a velocity of 1,000 miles an hour.

ONE of the hottest regions of the earth's surface is in the immediate vicinity of the Dead Sea. Experts in the science of hydrography declare that the sea loses not less than 1,000,000 tons of water a day through evaporation.

ONE of the visions of Jules Verne is likely to become a reality. Experiments have demonstrated to the satisfaction of experts of the navy that a ship can be constructed with a capacity for submerging itself and moving below the surface of the water rapidly and under strict control.

An automatic bottle stopper is a new device. A swinging lid is connected to a rod which runs down the side of the bottle. If the lid is open the rod will project below the bottom of the flask. Therefore, when the latter is set upon the table, the rod is forced up, throwing the lid down upon the bottle, opening and closing it.

The floating dock and the typewriter are among the many important inventions that were hit upon by men who made no attempt to patent their ideas.

A photographer conceived the idea of the floating dock before the device was perfected and put to practical use, and a naval officer thought out a practical typewriter, but was persuaded by friends to abandon his invention as a thing that nobody could be induced to use.

The following are the lowest barometer readings on record in various parts of the globe: In London a reading of 27.03 inches on the morning of Christmas day, 1821; over the British islands generally, a reading of 27.33 inches on January 26, 1884; in India, a reading of 27.12 inches at False Point, near the southern mouths of the Ganges, on September 22, 1885, this being the lowest authentic reading observed in any part of the world.

EARLY LOCOMOTIVES.

The America, First Engine Built for the Western Hemisphere.

Mr. Clement E. Stretton, C. E., of Leicester, England, writing to the editor of the Mechanical World regarding early locomotives in America, states that early in the year 1828 the Delaware & Hudson Canal company, having heard of the success of the Stockton & Darlington railway, sent over Mr. Horatio Allen to England with instructions to obtain information and purchase rails and four locomotives. He gave an order to Messrs. Foster, Rastrick & Co., of Stourbridge for three, also to Mr. Stephenson for one. Stephenson's engine was named "America;" it was built in 1828, and arrived in New York on board the ship "Columbia" about the middle of January, 1829. It was the first railroad locomotive engine ever seen in America, and is here illustrated. The following is a copy of the official description:

DESCRIPTION OF THE LOCOMOTIVE ENGINE "AMERICA," BUILT BY J. STEPHENSON & CO. FOR THE DELAWARE & HUDSON CANAL COMPANY TO THE ORDER OF MR. HORATIO ALLEN, 1828, AND NO. 12 IN THE BOOKS OF THE MAKERS.

The Earth Will Fall Out of Balance. Marshall Wheeler, one of the best known of the great army of Pacific coast scientists that have lately sprung up, claims to have discovered a "third principal motion of the earth," which is this: Every 20,000 years the globe changes its north and south poles on account of the attraction the earth has for its own magnetism. The sun, too, strongly attracts one of the poles and repels the other. This being the case, it only takes a short space of 20,000 years for the double attraction to career it over to such an extent that it suddenly "flips" 90 degrees. Mr. Wheeler says that one of these grand "flips" occurred 6,000 years ago, at the time set down by the geologists as the "glacial epoch."

Remarkable Illuminant. Italian papers report a new invention which promises to play an important role in the near future. An engineer of Milan, Italy, has succeeded in discovering a new process for making hydrogen on a large scale and so cheaply that in producing 1,500 cubic meters a day this gas will cost only 1 cent per cubic meter. Considering the fact that the substance, the lightest of all known and very inflammable, admits of complete combustion, emits no smoke when burning, leaves no ashes or other injurious products, gives the most intense heat obtainable and surpasses in power the electric light, one may easily comprehend the importance of this discovery if true.
